2009

Dr. Taylor and the entire Taylor Team would like to wish you a Happy New Year! May 2009 bring Health, Happiness and Prosperity to all of our patients and their families.

Amazing...but False!

You can't sneeze with your eyes open. A bodily reflex makes most people close their eyes when sneezing, even when they try hard to keep them open. Some people however, are wired differently and are able to keep their eyes open during a sneeze. No one knows exactly why, but for the vast majority of people, sneezing does makes the eyes close. Since this reflex involves the eyes it may be related to the "photic sneeze reflex," which makes some people sneeze when they are exposed to bright sunlight.

The Olympic Gold Medal is made of gold. Nope, poor Michael Phelps, he won eight "Gold" medals this past summer. The last time Olympic gold medals were made of pure gold was in 1912. These days the "Gold" medals are made of silver and then plated with gold (The silver one's are also plated with silver, naturally).

Hidden Phrase

In this newsletter are hidden clues to a word or phrase. Find them, solve the puzzle and bring  it in for extra tokens.

Did you know...

The "forward slash" sometimes used for division and, more recently, in the World Wide Web (internet) addresses, is called a virgule.

Extra Token Question

In a previous newsletter we compared your brain to a type of food. What was the food item?

This question is worth five extra tokens!
